

VALENTINES MAN

By

Angela

1. INT. SITTING ROOM - FLAT - NORTH LONDON ESTATE - DAY

An elderly woman wakes from her afternoon nap to the sound of her door bell ringing. She takes a moment to orientate herself then she slowly gets up and goes to the door.

2. INT. FRONT DOOR - SAME FLAT - DAY.

The woman opens the door and sees... a man dressed as a huge red fur covered heart, complete with piercing arrow. She doesn't know what to say. For a moment she stands dumb struck as the man dressed as a heart smiles and says...

VALENTINE'S MAN

Becky Rivers?

OLD WOMAN

She's not in.

VALENTINE'S MAN

Oh.

Valentine Man is now at a loss of what to do.

OLD WOMAN

She wont be long. Do you wanna come in I was just about to put the kettle on.

Valentine Man looks up and down the corridor and takes a moment to assess the situation, he takes out a piece of paper he has in his valentines sack and checks the name and address. As he does so the Old Woman walks slowly back into the flat. After a moment he follows her.

3. INT. SITTING ROOM - SAME FLAT - DAY

MONTAGE

Valentines Man and the Old Woman watch an old black and white movie weepy,; the old woman takes a sneaky look at Valentine man who is totally engrossed by the film. They then have afternoon tea and cake together.

Valentine Man sits awkwardly on the sofa the arrow which sticks out either side of the heart keeps getting caught on the pillows. He sips his tea and smiles at the Old Woman. During a thoughtful game of scrabble.....

4. INT. SITTING ROOM - SAME FLAT - DAY

A young woman comes crashing into the flat she is in full cry, arguing with her boyfriend. They both storm through the sitting room, but stop for an instance to look at Valentine Man sitting on the sofa before carrying on screaming at each other.

5. INT. FRONT DOOR - SAME FLAT - DAY

The old woman shows Valentine Man out. The Valentine Man smiles at the old woman and from his Valentines sack he produces a box of chocolates.

OLD WOMAN

Thank you very much.

The young woman joins her grandmother at the door, and they both watch Valentines man walk away.

YOUNG WOMAN

Who was that Gran?

OLD WOMAN

I haven't got the foggiest luv,
but we had a lovely afternoon.

The old woman smiles at her granddaughter, and her granddaughter in turn kisses her on the cheek.

THE END